In hometown triumph, singer is applauded by audience at Laurel concert sponsored by Negro organization which was building new hospital. Whites sat in special section. About 2,000 Negroes and some 1,000 whites attended the concert.

After concert, hometown girl shakes hands of well-wishers. She sang numbers in Italian, German, French, English.

Overcome by tumultuous welcome, she brushes away tear. As child, her ambition was to become a music teacher.

Local fans surround singer backstage. Delegation of Laurel whites attends most of her opening-night performances.

Mrs. Chisholm helps singer choose music. She served as accompanist for Leontyne in series of Free Mississippi concerts.

Reviewing parade, Leontyne stands on sidewalk. She professes tender feelings for segregated birthplace, says: "My heart is still there. I love my hometown. I have wonderful sponsors, the Chisholms. They are about the dearest friends I have..."
